Odellos move a step closer to dream

BY DAVID LELAND

IF WINNING unanimous approval from County Supervisors for their Coast Ranch project were a title bout, then the Odello family would still be preparing for the final round.

That match should come later this year before the state Coastal Commission.

But first the heartening news: after 30 years of disagreement with county officials over plans for a portion their artichoke fields east of Highway 1, the Odello family's development permit for a 76-lot subdivision passed muster this week.

"The project that they will ultimately have there will be a good project and fit into the community," said 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman, adding that the family's application has somehow slipped through the cracks. "The Odello family is the prime example of individuals caught up in changing land-use and environmental law."

As approved, Coast Ranch will see 76 individual lots subdivided, which will be sold to buyers who will, in turn, take their application to the county for approval. The Odellos will also build six moderate-income housing units in the east portion of the subdivision and upgrade six existing red, farmworker cabins into moderate-income units.

But all is not rosy for the Odello family, who received, as did supervisors, a letter from the Coastal Commission the morning of the hearing that asked the family to scuttle a large portion of the application.

"We suggest that the proposed subdivision be redesigned to bet-is the family's battle with the state Coastal Commission, which also must approve the subdivision. (Marilyn Owen photo.)

Sand Castle contest organizers balk at city's hard stance

By DAVID LELAND

AFTER BEING allowed to circumvent the political process for almost 30 years, the annual Sand Castle Contest is being called before the Carmel City Council to make sure every grain is in place.

The event, held each year between September and October on a moment's notice, has long been one of the few celebrations geared for Carmelites.

But Mayor Jean Grace says she is worried that organizers now have their eyes on money, rather than art for art's sake.

"They're requesting more commercial signage," said Grace, referring to a request to advertise the wares of the event's sponsors. "No one is putting more restrictions on them."

But Craig Threshie, Sand Castle Contest chairman, said his group is merely trying to stay afloat.

"They have set up new rules to ter protect views, maximize agricultural land protection, and not impede wildlife movement to the (Carmel) River," wrote David Loomis, assistant district director, in a four-page letter.

To say the least, supervisors were livid at the commission's 11th-hour tactics.

"They've only had 15 years," said a caustic 4th District Supervisor Sam Karas.

Second District Supervisor Barbara Shipnuck won approval from the board to fire off a letter or protest to the commission for its improper methodology.

"It's (letter) inexcusable and absolutely inappropriate," she said, adding that she questioned whether the actual Coastal Commission was aware of the document. "It's time the commission knew how their staff acted."

Even Efren Iglesia, deputy county counsel, agreed with the board the coastal staff's letter did not follow proper procedure.

"If the Coastal Commission is serious about their letter, it should have been presented before the (County) Planning Commission," said Iglesia, referring to on-going hearings held during the past year.

The planning commission approved the application May 8.

However, the Odello family remained optimistic that they would prevail before the Coastal Commission.

"I'm very confident," said Bruna Odello.

City council at odds over mayor's choice of planner

By DAVID LELAND

NOT ONLY has the appointment of a new planning commissioner to fill the position vacated by Barbara Lysle had its embarrassing moments, it has now become a power struggle among Carmel City Councilmembers.

Last month the council vetoed Mayor Jean Grace's nomination of Anne Beckett to the seat, which Grace vowed to fight. However, personal problems by the nominee prompted her name to be dropped from the roster.

Grace then informally submitted another name to the council, which also received an equally informal thumbs-down.

At the next council meeting, Grace will offer up Recreation Commissioner Bob D'Isidoro for the seat, which runs through September of 1992.

The council will meet at 4 p.m. Tuesday, June 4, in the council chambers at City Hall.

"He (D'Isidoro) is a fine community member and has won respect for his leadership on the recreation commission, especially as chair of the diverse Rio Park Committee," wrote Grace in a memo to councilmembers. "I believe he will make an intelligent and conscientious planning commissioner."

While it is unclear whether Grace's nomination will win approval, the very method of selecting people to boards and commissions may be altered during the meeting.

At the request of Councilman Jim Wright, the council will examine possible alternatives to the appointment process, which is currently one of the few political benefits of being mayor.

Wright said that by requesting alternatives he is not trying to usurp Grace's power or integrity. In fact, he said his concern regarding appointments goes back to when former Mayor Clint Eastwood reorganized the planning commission shortly after being elected in 1986.

"There have been problems with appointments in several instances," he said. "It's not been an easy process."

During the meeting staff will present a list of alternatives being practiced by other cities.

"Maybe we'll discover a better way," Wright said, adding that one option is to hold special council meetings and conduct open interviews of the applicants.

But Grace said that the current process, while not perfect, best represents the will of the people.

"It's a balanced method the way it is," she said. "The people want the mayor to take leadership."

Grace pointed out that the coun-

Support education

Dear Editor:

As a past board member of the Carmel Unified School District, I am supporting Measure "A" on June 4, 1991.

Deferred maintenance unfortunately has been a way of life for the district due to lack of funds for too many years. The physical condition of our schools and buses is a sad commentary on the value this community places on the education of its children.

The proposed parcel tax is less than a couple would spend going to dinner in one of our local restaurants.

Of particular concern to me is the run-down condition of Carmel High School. Its location on Highway 1 is visible to all the world's travelers, who come to our area. Our students and community deserve a facility that reflect both pride and support of public education.

I urge a yes vote on Measure "A."

Best protection

Dear Editor:

We who oppose proposition "M" wonder what we have to do to convince our Monterey County Board of Supervisors that we want to keep our fine CDF (California Department of Forestry) fire fighters?

Even though the supervisors already expect that the fire districts consolidation will be soundly defeated, they are rushing through a bidding process which will give them the opportunity to contract with a mostly volunteer fire protection plan.

Please send them a message on June 4 that you want the best fire protection...and vote No on Measure "M."

CRA supports A

Dear Editor:

The Board of Directors of the Carmel Residents Association has unanimously endorsed Measure A, the Schools Improvement Initiative for the Carmel Unified School District.

There are more compelling reasons to support this measure than this space allows. Here are a few which we considered:

- Property values are affected by the quality of local schools. By supporting our school district, even if we don't have children there, we are improving the quality, and therefore the value, of our neighborhoods.

- School buses are the ultimate form of "car-pooling." Imagine the added pollution and congestion if all parents had to take their children to and from school! This would affect all of us. Half of Carmel's school buses are over 20 years old and in dire need of replacement.

- Most of us have benefited from public school education. Doesn't it seem fair to go the extra distance to support our local schools when they are in need, as citizens before us supported the schools we attended?

A recent study reported that Americans spend a smaller share of their wealth on schools than two thirds of the world's most advanced countries. If we have a real commitment to education, that commitment has to be demonstrated in the voting booth.

The CRA urges a YES vote for MEASURE A on Tuesday, June 4.

Invest in future

Dear Editor:

The time has come to take action before it's too late. Measure A must be passed to allow the Carmel Unified School District to continue providing quality education to the children in our district.

One of the major problems with education and schools nationwide is the lack of local control. It's time we start taking care of our own problems for a change.

Measure A is a local measure where all of the funds will be raised locally and disbursed locally. These funds will not go to any federal, state, or local bureaucrats but will rather be spent on our local schools.

No salaries or benefits will be funded by Measure A. Each penny that will be raised will be earmarked for a specific school improvement. Wouldn't it be nice if we knew the same about all of our taxes?

The passage of Measure A will help to alleviate the dangerous and unsafe conditions that exist at our local schools. If Measure A is not passed, these conditions still must be corrected, but they will cause a major drain on the district's General Budget which will take money away from education. We cannot afford an education crisis.

Schools across the state are having major financial problems. Let's avoid having one in Carmel. Make an investment in your future by voting Yes on Measure A on June 4. We all benefit from quality education...our future is relying on it.

Best investment

Dear Editor:

Who should vote for Carmel Schools' Measure A?

A "Yes" vote for Measure A is the best investment any of us can make for our collective futures, regardless of whether or not we have children in the public school system.

EDITORIAL

Yes on Measure A

FORGET, FOR a moment, the obvious reason for supporting the Schools Improvement Initiative in the June 4 election: much-needed repairs for an aging Carmel Unified School District.

Instead, take a minute to concentrate on who would actually benefit from the measure, which would assess each parcel in the 600-square-mile district $80 annually for the next four years, and raise a total of $3.2 million during that time. The money would be used solely for critical renovations, asbestos removal, bus purchases and playground equipment.

If you answered that the beneficiaries would be students and teachers you are right. If you responded rank and file citizens, bingo. Senior citizens? Of course. In other words, the entire community wins with the passage of this crucial measure. To support that theory, witness the wide range of groups endorsing the measure: the Carmel Residents Association, Carmel Business Association, Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club and Northeast Carmel Residents Association.

The Pine Cone believes that Measure A provides a springboard toward facilitating a closer relationship between the Carmel Area and its schools. Officials at Carmel High School have already realized the need for a closer bond and, beginning next fall, will require incoming students to complete 60 hours of community service during the next four years.

In exchange, the CUSD is simply asking for the equivalent of a mere 22 cents a day. It should be noted that the money will go for tangible items; nary a salary will be paid by the initiative.

Critics of Measure A charge that the district has been on a spending spree. Upon further examination, quite the contrary proves to be true. The fact is that CUSD teachers earn far less than their peers, while facing a higher cost of living.

The bottom line is that Measure A, surprisingly enough, transcends money — it cuts to the quick of society. How can we expect our children to respect us if we do not return the favor?

One other thing is clear. With a two-thirds majority needed to adopt the measure, it becomes apparent that this is not a passive issue: positive action must be taken by all voters by going to the polls. Don't rely on your neighbor to do it for you; there's too much at stake. Next Tuesday, vote Yes on Measure A. It's the safest vote you will ever cast for a child.

A high quality public education program ensures well informed and productive citizens. Lack of a quality public education program ultimately results in a drastic drain of resources and is a tragic waste of human potential as well.

Please make sure we provide our youth with the basic fundamentals of a safe, healthy, well-maintained educational environment.

Vote Yes on Measure A. This is the least we can do for the youth of our community.

Worst possible tax

Dear Editor:

Taxes, taxes, and more taxes. The federal government is in the process of raising our taxes; the State is going to raise our sales tax; the county has a new half-cent sales tax and they will probably impose a new utility tax; and now the CARMEL SCHOOL DISTRICT has a parcel tax on the ballot. Tax Freedom day this year was May 8 and with all of these new taxes it won't be long before we will be working six months out of the year just to pay our taxes.

This Carmel School Parcel Tax is the worst possible type of tax. It ignores the ability of the people to pay. Size and value of parcels in the district vary widely. We have many unemployed on the Peninsula and there are thousands of retired locally who are on a fixed income and cannot afford more taxes.

In the state of California, on an average, it costs $5,000 per student per year to educate him. The Carmel District now spends $5,787 per student. If the parcel tax is approved the district will have $6,191 to spend on each student or $1,191 more per student than the state average. ENOUGH IS ENOUGH.

Take a classroom of 30 students and multiply by $5,787 (what is now spent per student) the total revenue per classroom is $173,610. Teachers average salary including generous benefits is $50,000. Subtract the $50,000 from the $173,610 per classroom that is not used to educate the students in the classroom. Where does all of this money go? It is time that the Carmel School District becomes more efficient in their operation. They now spend far more than the average school district in the state per student and they still want more. VOTE NO ON THE PARCEL TAX.

Fire district merger draws hot crossfire

By SUSAN BECK

OPPOSITION TO the annexation of County Service Areas (CSAs) 39 and 43, including neighboring territory, to the Mid Valley Fire Protection District was strong and gaining momentum at last night's public forum on Fire Consolidation Measure M.

The League of Women Voters sponsored a forum at the Carmel Middle School on Carmel Valley Road. Four panelists presented background information and arguments supporting and opposing the measure to be voted on next Tuesday, June 4.

Charles Page, panel member and chairman for the CSA 39 Advisory Committee, said that the CSA 43 Advisory Committee has worked in the manner of the "Wizard of Oz, creating enough smoke, bells and confusion," to thwart the efforts of the Monterey County Board of Supervisors and the Mid Carmel Valley Fire Protection District, who proposed a Carmel Unified Fire Protection District Reorganization. "Don't worry, be happy," with the way things are is their theme, said Page. Addressing the audience that filled the meeting room, he urged everyone to get the facts.

"There is only one issue before the voters. That is whether or not to form a fire protection district with a board of directors consisting of two members from CSA 43, one from CSA 39 and two from Mid Carmel Valley Fire Protection District," said Page. "If consolidation doesn't come to pass, probably all of you will live to regret it. I hope this regret is not centered around the loss of life and homes."

The proposed consolidation would dissolve CSA 39 (Del Monte Fairways, Josselyn Canyon, and Aguajito), and CSA 43 (Carmel Unincorporated), and all of their corporate powers. The Mid Carmel Valley Fire Protection District's Board of Directors would also be terminated.

Fifth District Karin Strasser Kauffman also said that the important issue in this election is to decide who will make the decisions concerning local fire protection.

"One thing, there will be good service either way. Be assured that there will continue to be firefighters, equipment and stations," said Strasser Kauffman.

Ann Bloxom, panel member representing CSA 43's Advisory Committee, said that there were factors that lead to the annexation proposal that may make it difficult to achieve the primary goals of the consolidation, which are cost-effectiveness and better government.

She said that the motivation to join forces came about when the developer of Quail Meadows requested his property be moved from Mid Valley's fire district and annexed to CSA 43, which is served by the California Department of Forestry (CDF).

The loss of Quail Meadows would be about $104,000 in annexation fees, as well as the on-going increased revenue derived from the higher assessed valuation of the fire district. She said that Mid Valley had planned on those funds for future and present projects and claimed that without the revenue the level of service to the entire district would be disrupted.

Bloxom said that this would indicate that Mid Valley has a history of political turmoil and financial risk-taking.

She said that the fiscal status of any special district is, in large part, contingent on board policy and organizational leadership. She said that it's important to pay close attention to past management history, continuing leadership, and board composition.

She said that Mid Valley's notion of how to deal with this political complexity seems to be to "power over" rather than resolve differences through persuasion or compromise.

Mid Valley's Fire Chief Gary Carmichael said that the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) was responsible for considering consolidation of the different fire districts. He said that every eight to 10 years they reevaluate to see that everything is running smoothly.

LAFCO wanted to consolidate seven districts, said Carmichael.

He said that Mid Valley countered with a proposal to join with CSA 43, but could not just leave CSA 39, so they were included.

Carmichael said that reasons for CSA 43's opposition to the consolidation is based on the area's historical resistance to change and the fact that fire protection is a complicated subject.

One of the complications of the proposal is that CDF service will be terminated after one year. They will be given the first right of refusal for any positions that they are qualified for and currently hold that are available in the reorganized district.

Reno DiTullio, panel member representing CDF, said that CDF is not opposed to consolidation, however, dropping their services would mean a loss of the largest multi-protection service in the United States. He said that CDF has a depth of personnel and state of the art equipment that would be difficult to replace.

Carmichael said that except for Los Angeles and San Francisco, CDF firefighters are the most expensive in California. He said that the decisions on how to pay employees, which is 80 percent of the budget, is all done in Sacramento. CDF firefighters work 72 hours, which gives them a lot of overtime. Carmichael said that a normal work week is 56 hours and provides adequate service.

He also said the $100,000 in administrative fees that goes to Sacramento could be better used in a reserve fund for future needs in the community.

Also, if consolidation occurs, the Monterey County Public Works Department will no longer be used, saving about $40,000, Strasser Kauffman said.

Carmichael said that CDF justifies their cost by saying that they provide state of the art equipment and their services are excellent and would be difficult to replace.

"There's no problem with getting a lot of highly trained wildland and structural firefighters into the area," said Carmichael. "and we have equipment."

He said that Carmel Valley and CSA 43 at one time were in the same fire district. Mid Valley split because they wanted better service than CDF was offering at the time. "We are just getting back to the way we were."

Bloxom said that CSA 43 wants to retain a contract with CDF on a long-term basis.

"We now know exactly what we have in the way of personnel, equipment, and stations. We have a detailed contract. We know exactly how much it costs. We do not know exactly what will replace it, exactly who will make those decisions, and exactly how much it will cost," Bloxom said. "The proposed personnel structure eliminates the most experienced people who could help with planning and supervision. We need more than a single leader. We need some depth of personnel to fill in."

Other points made by Carmichael and Page in favor of the consolidation was that a local board of directors will govern, manage and control the fire service in this area rather than the county board of supervisors, three of whom do not live on the peninsula.

In addition, there are no fire barriers at the boundaries of CSA 39 or 43 and consolidation will eliminate the problems and dangers of fragmented management and operation of fire service in an area which must have coordinated services for effective fire protection, they said. Also, the local board will continue citizens' advisory committees.

Bloxom said that CSA 43 already has adequate local control. They requested and received a volunteer program after the Prop. 13 budget cuts, and inspection of individual houses for wildland fire safety, adoption and implementation of the uniform fire code, and provision of a prevention and training officer position.

"This is not a well-developed plan. It's a gamble, and we aren't impressed with the odds of winning. We don't want our money used to place the bet," said Bloxom.

Voice of Carmel hopes to put reason back into city

By DAVID LELAND

A LOCAL group of movers and shakers has decided to test the proverbial waters concerning public sentiment on at least two critical issues.

Calling themselves "Voice of Carmel," the collaboration of seven residents this week mailed a survey to each of the city's 5,300 property owners, whether or not they are registered to vote.

"There are some seemingly dumb things that are happening in Carmel, and we have a suspicion that a lot of other people agree with us," said Olof Dahlstrand, president.

Other members of the group include former Carmel Mayor Clint Eastwood; former City Councilman Bob Evans; Recreation Commissioner Pat Sippel; former library trustee Joseph Chaffers, who also serves as the organization's secretary/treasurer; former Carmel Planning Commissioner Howard Nieman, Jr.; and Parking Committee Chairman Alan Williams.

The first questionnaire mailed by the group this week asks residents: "Should the city spend $335,000 for the First Murphy Park?" and, "Are you satisfied with the condition of Carmel's Streets/ Should the city adopt and provide budget priority to a street maintenance plan?"

Despite the implication that it is targeting the Carmel Residents Association, which has been a prime supporter of the First Murphy project, Dahlstrand denies any sour grapes.

"We are not reacting to or connected to any political movements in town," said Dahlstrand, adding that his organization is registered with the state. "Voice of Carmel will raise issues that seem important to the town."

The purpose of Voice of Carmel is to provide nonpartisan and objective information to Carmel residents and property owners on topics which are of public interest.

After results are tabulated they will be turned over to city officials to be used as decision-making information, Dahlstrand said, adding that the results will also be included in the next residential mailing, as well as being published in the local news media.

Locals can expect as many as three surveys a year, Dahlstrand said.

Voice of Carmel's mission statement is written in the current mailing: "The purpose of Voice of Carmel is to provide nonpartisan and objective information to Carmel residents and property owners on topics which are of public interest."

Dahlstrand stressed that the new group, which is soliciting funding to help defray mailing costs, simply provides a service.

"Most of us are unable to attend or individually participate in city government," wrote Dahlstrand in a cover letter with the survey. "As a result, the full range of public opinion is not always represented nor all sides of an issue discussed. We hope to change the shortcomings in the process."

In addition to asking residents to complete the survey and mail it back to its Carmel Post Office Box, the group is asking for a listing of future subjects that people wish to address.

"This hasn't been tried before," Dahlstrand said. "It may work."

Supes to review PB land use plan

By DAVID LELAND

REACTING TO numerous quality-of-life concerns from citizens, the Monterey County Board of Supervisors is poised to review resource-protection portions of the Del Monte Forest Land Use Plan.

"There is great public interest, particularly among the residents of the Del Monte Forest, for an adequate and up-to-date Del Monte Forest Plan," said 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman.

The current blueprint, certified in 1984, fails to provide for the peninsula's rapid growth and "piece-meal" amendments that have taken place, specifically in the areas of water, sewage, infrastructure, vegetation, public access, road systems and traffic, according to Strasser Kauffman, who oversees the forest with 4th District Supervisor Sam Karas.

"It (plan) needs to undergo re-examination; there have been many changes," said Strasser Kauffman, referring to the building of residential homes on vacant lots and larger projects, such as The Inn at Spanish Bay. "It's time to make sure that this plan is an acceptable guideline for the future."

Essentially, a land use plan provides broad parameters for an area and is used when planning applications are made with the county.

Such a document must be certified by the state Coastal Commission, which would also need to approve any revisions that the county deems necessary.

Land Use Plan

Other agencies that would be involved in any revisions to the design would be Monterey Peninsula Water Management District, Pebble Beach Community Services District, Health Department and Public Works.

The county planning department has estimated that it will take one senior planner two years to thoroughly review the plan. The cost: $121,250.

"If the decision is made to go ahead and revise the plan, we need to make sure that the staff is funded so the county can do a good job in analyzing the situation," Strasser Kauffman said.

Strasser Kauffman said she will also ask the board to dedicate the funding from the $550,000 in tax money garnered by the county from the sale of the Pebble Beach Co.

Additional funding could come from a grant from the Coastal Commission, which funds land use reviews, which are supposed to take place every five years.

And while the document has been guiding the forest for more than seven years, an application filed last year for 353 units by the Pebble Beach Co. has sparked resident concern. The situation has become somewhat exacerbated by the sale last September of the Pebble Beach Co.

"Obviously the latest fuel for this discussion is the change of ownership," Strasser Kauffman said.

But despite the current land use plan allowing more than 900 units to be built in the forest, Pebble Beach Co. officials say there are no plans to amend their current application.

"The company will work with the county and local residents on further plans," said Candace Ingram, a company spokesperson. "But there are no definite plans now."

Strasser Kauffman pointed out that any revisions would only affect eventual proposals.

owner," she said, adding that she welcomes input from company officials if the plan is amended. "The Pebble Beach Co. could make proposals along with everybody else on how they would like the plan to look."

The board is scheduled to hear a proposal on forest amendments at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday, June 11.

Supervisor seeking applicants to serve on assessment board

FIFTH DISTRICT Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman is seeking a qualified applicant to serve on the Monterey County Assessment Appeals Board.

The successful applicant must have a minimum of five years professional experience in the State of California as one of the following:

1. A certified Public Accountant or Public Accountant
2. A licensed real estate broker
3. An attorney
4. A property appraiser

accredited by a nationally recognized professional organization, or a person who the nominating member of the board of supervisors has reason to believe is possessed of competent knowledge of property appraisal and taxation.

The Assessment Appeals Board meets two days each month in Salinas for a period of approximately nine months per year, September through May.

Persons who are interested and reside in the 5th District are encouraged to send a letter stating their qualifications and desire to serve, including their home address and daytime telephone number to the office of Strasser Kauffman, 1200 Aguajito Road, Suite 001, Monterey, CA 93940.

Monterey County's 5th District includes the Aguajito, Skyline Forest, parts of Monterey and Pebble Beach, Cachagua, Carmel, Carmel Valley, Big Sur, and the Toro Area of the County.

'It (plan) needs to undergo re-examination; there have been many changes. It's time to make sure that this plan is an acceptable guideline for the future.'

— Karin Strasser Kauffman

"Whatever is in the future will not affect the current application," she said, adding that there is also no guarantee that all of the 353 units would win approval.

Strasser Kauffman indicated that the current land use plan is too pro-Pebble Beach Co. in its concerns.

"We can't build our plans on the desires of a particular property

Value of schools

Dear Editor:

The argument is often made that property values and the quality of local schools are linked: good schools, high values; poor schools, low values.

How about here in Carmel where most owners' kids are long gone from school days?

Here too, in my view, the high quality of our public schools is a big plus for real estate. A young mother once told me she would "kill" to get her kids into River School. The demand for family housing in Carmel, Pebble Beach and Carmel Valley is strongly influenced by the perception that the Carmel Unified School District runs an outstanding school system.

The value of the real estate of those of us living in "charmers," which would not qualify as suitable family housing, also benefits from our good schools. Good schools mean good kids. Places where kids are tearing up the town are not valued as attractive places to live.

The kids here who are interacting directly with adults through part-time employment opportunities or in community projects with our many service organizations are impressive. They are bright, alert and polite. The youth of Carmel are a credit to this community.

One way to ensure the future value of our properties is to do whatever we can to maintain and improve the quality of our public school district. An easy way to do this is to get out on Tuesday, June 4 and VOTE YES on Measure A.

Tax all taxpayers

Dear Editor:

I received three calls from people supporting Prop A last week, and then a slick flier came in the mail. I called the information number they listed and asked one of the school superintendents a couple of questions.

I am a first-time property owner and owner-builder of my own small home in Cachagua, and am therefore faced with the proposed additional tax. I believe strongly in quality education, safe buses, and safe classrooms. I don't have children, but that's irrelevant, as children are everyone's future. I just don't feel it is fair to tax only property owners.

I asked the superintendent why not tax all TAXPAYERS in the Carmel Unified School District? At first he said it was illegal to do so by their guidelines, but when I pressed him on this, he said that additional taxes had always been done this way. Now maybe for folks with income property it won't matter, as they'll just pass the $80 per year on to their tenants.

Even though I live on a very meager income, while $80 is not the end of the world, I would much rather see the money go to a paid fire department in Upper Carmel Valley. I pay a lot of taxes already, as do my neighbors, and I cannot believe the county cannot come up with funds for our excellent VOL-UNTEER fire and medical people up here.

Taxing all taxpayers in the school district is the only fair way to charge for Prop A's cost, but you can be darn sure that would fail at the polls. The lottery was a joke. All the money went to management and fancy ads. Prop A's objectives are good, but the cost should be shared by everyone. A computer could send out bills to all resident taxpayers as easily as to all property owners, or how about all registered voters?

No, better and wiser for the school district to send the bill to a smaller group "over there." If it was on everyone's back, it would not pass. For fairness sake, vote NO on Prop A.

The safest vote

Dear Editor:

I have worked for the last four years with the Citizens for Carmel Schools for the passage of Measure A on the June 4 ballot.

I have learned that a majority of people support Measure A. Those in opposition generally don't like taxes or they feel this tax is unfair.

The fact is, Measure A provides the fairest and most cost-effective way to raise funds for badly cil must still ratify any nominations, so the mayor's power is in no way absolute. Moreover, with up to 35 people often applying with the city to fill positions, other methods could become cumbersome.

"I don't understand what the problem is," said Grace, adding that she is fighting to keep status quo for mayors yet to come.

She does, however, object to the majority of opposition (Wright, Barbara Brooks, Ken White), exerting their influence.

"They just want to be in charge," she said.

Wright added that he wants to refrain from humiliating Grace or any person who is attempting to gain a position of city service.

"We would like to do this without embarrassing some good citizen who wants to serve," he said. "We want to avoid personalities."

During the upcoming meeting, Grace will also nominate Don Krenner for the Forest Commission to fill a term vacated by Fred Bos-tock.

abide by," he charged. "The mayor has been more restrictive in what she is allowing us to do. We can't lose money."

Threshie claimed that by allowing local merchants' signs to be displayed, his group could pay for the event.

He further charged that the annual Surfabout surfing competition has been given permission to display advertising signage.

"We've been dealt a double signal by the mayor," he said.

But Grace pointed out that Surfabout representatives always come before the city council for permission for signage.

She added that her main intent in asking Threshie to come before the council is to keep the event just as it has always been.

"We're saying don't change it from what you have been doing," she said.

But Grace and Threshie cannot even agree on the origin of the contest.

"We feel the American Institute of Architects has worked very hard form the past 30 years to have a low-key, family-oriented event," Threshie said.

But Grace said that, while the AIA is the current driving force behind the one-day affair at Carmel Beach, it wasn't always that way.

Indeed, past issues of The Pine Cone bear that out.

"I see no good reason — no reason at all, in fact — why Carmelites with the boundless resources of our beach and bay and alluring fall weather...should not gather together and sand-castle for a day," wrote then editor Larry Rose in an Aug. 30, 1962 issue of the newspaper. "The Pine Cone is, therefore, proposing that Sunday, 23 September, be set aside as sand castle day at Carmel Beach."

It should be noted, however, that one of the first judges was noted architect Will Shaw.

The council will gather at 4 p.m. Tuesday, June 4, in the council chambers at City Hall.

Seniors program needs participants

IN SEPTEMBER 1987 the Carmel-by-the-Sea Police Department began a program to benefit senior citizens of the community in two ways.

First, senior citizens who live alone and are often "shut-in" their residences with little or no contact with friends or relatives, can be provided with the security of knowing that someone does truly care about their welfare. Also, those concerned with their physical well-being will have someone to check on them daily.

Second, seniors interested in participating in some type of community program will be able to work with those in their own peer group by volunteering to place these daily telephone calls to the recipients of the program.

Currently, the department has a full staff of volunteers, however, anyone wishing to be placed on an alternate list to fill in when another caller is unable to make it or is away on vacation, is encouraged to call for information.

Anyone living alone, whether concerned about their health or not, and all those seniors wishing to make new friends or just have the opportunity to talk with someone new each day is encouraged to participate in this program.

Telephone calls are made daily by a volunteer beginning at 9:30 a.m. No participant is ever restricted to their home; they need only contact the police department in advance if they plan to be away during the time the calls are placed to avoid any confusion. If someone fails to answer their telephone, a patrol unit is sent by to conduct a welfare check at the residence.

Anyone interested in becoming a part of this program should contact Desk Officer Cathy Dampier at Carmel Police Department, 624-6403.

Odellos step closer to dream

Coastal Commission 20 years ago that found that the land deserved "special consideration" from the county because of the need for flood control.

"After all these years, nothing has really changed, the need for flood control is still there," she said. "They should be ecstatic."

Indeed, if the Coastal Commission is not "ecstatic" a number of residents living near the Carmel River are thankful that the project has moved forward.

Under an agreement with the county, the Odellos will lower their levee on the south side of their land to allow flooding from the Carmel River. This would save neighborhoods and businesses on the north side of the river.

The majority of testimony during the hearing centered upon flood control and how the Odellos have suffered throughout the years in the planning process.

"My wife and I have no interest in the Coast Ranch project, but we have become concerned about the treatment the owners of this land have received in their efforts to find a reasonable solution to their dilemma," said Roger Loper.

The only local opposition was voiced from Barbara Rainer, representing the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club. Rainer called the environmental impact report for the project "flawed," and said it was "premature" for plans to be approved until Highway 1 improvements were in place.

Walter Wong, the county's environmental health officer, also questioned whether there is sewage capacity to accommodate the project.

Strasser Kauffman and Wong will meet with representatives from the Regional Quality Water Control Board May 30 to discuss a cease-and-desist order issued one year ago banning new hookups by the Carmel Wastewater Management District.

However, Don Hubbard, an attorney representing the Odello family, pointed out that Quail Mead-needed repairs to facilities and for replacement of tired old school buses. Ironically, everyone supports a strong educational program but not everyone can agree how best to pay for it or what it should cost.

I support Measure A because I took the time to get involved and understand both sides of the issue. I support our school board and superintendent because they put academic excellence as the first priority and have developed one of the top educational programs in California.

The teachers, proud of what they have accomplished, have worked hard for Measure A, even though none of the money will be used for their salaries.

The children of the Carmel Unified School District deserve classrooms and school buses that provide a healthy and safe environment to complement their academic excellence.

You now have the opportunity to invest $80 a year for only four years. Your investment will raise $3.5 million. All the money raised here will be spent here.

Without your support now, we are putting at risk the academic excellence that we have worked so hard to achieve. Please vote yes for Measure A. It's the safest vote you can ever cast for a child.

Leave seniors alone

Dear Editor:

Priorities do indeed need straightening out.

Why support Measure A? School buses that should have been retired years ago.

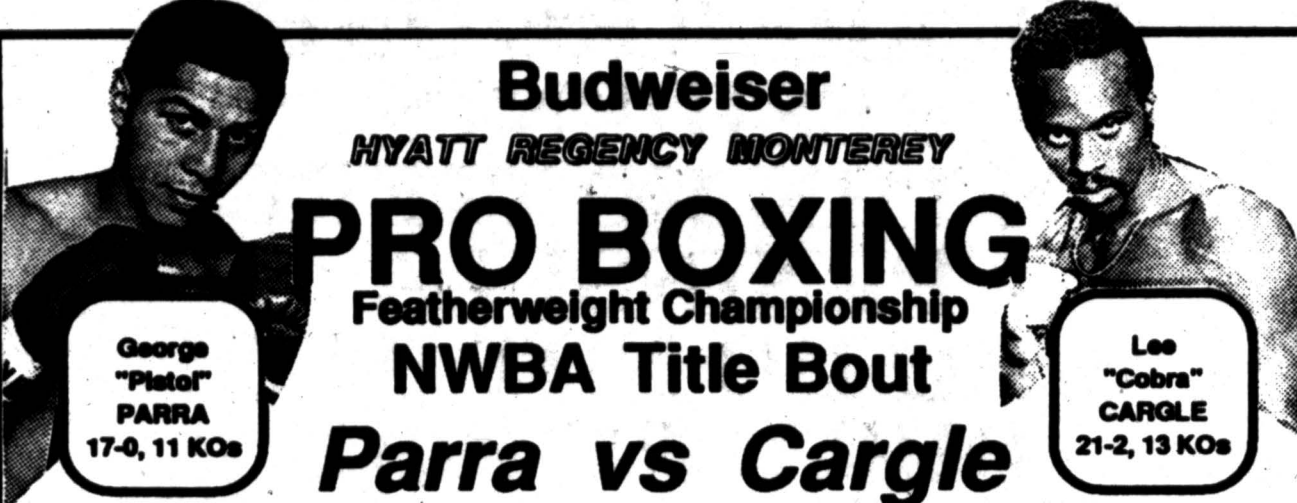

Why were they not? The district superintendent of transportation could easily have foreseen this problem.

Why are we asked to pay $80 per parcel to benefit those individuals so ennobled with human rights? These same individuals who believe that birth control is an obscene word.

Why do we compare school districts overburden with administrative expenses with park districts, etc.?

In no instance are we talking for 'Kids Needs', we are advocating the continued Bureaucracy of the

Breeding a Pet

PARENTS MAGAZINE has a shocking story in its May issue, "The Family Pet: New Arrivals" (written by a vet, who should know better), which states: "When puppies and kittens are on the way, it can be a wonderful learning experience for the entire family."

In today's world, however, breeding a dog or cat creates anything but a wonderful experience. It is truly a time for learning, but not the kind of information the magazine provides. What families learn many times is that there aren't any homes for puppies and kittens who grow up to be dogs and cats.

Pet overpopulation in this country has reached epidemic proportions. Humane societies and shelters destroy more than 10 million unwanted dogs and cats each year! That number comprises between 15 and 25 percent of our entire domestic animal population. Yes, one out of every four or five pets is destroyed each year because there are no homes.

And there's more! Other animals who aren't killed by the humane society are simply abandoned on the side of a road or released into an urban environment to fend for themselves. We have all seen these sad and pitiful creatures who may eventually be hit by a car, unable to find food, or even victimized by insensitive youths or teenagers.

Children may be excited about preparing for the births, as the article states, but a terrible reality lies ahead. Do they really want their readers' children to realize that, when there are no homes for these adorable animals, what happens next?

Of course, shelters and humane societies do try to find homes for the animals, and that is where many of us adopted our own pets. But with the homes not there, a large percentage of healthy, adoptable and loving animals are killed — or, worse yet, turned over for medical research.

Is the lesson of "witnessing a birth" more important than the suffering those puppies and kittens must endure because no one wants them?

As a responsible publication, I have urged Parents Magazine to tell the reality about family pet overpopulation. The wonderful learning experience is even possible without contributing to the problem. Parents can take their children to a wildlife rehabilitation center, to a zoo, a farm or other locations, if that is part of the education they want their children to have.

As responsible parents, we each have the opportunity to set an example of compassion and sensitivity towards all living creatures. That is the most important lesson we can teach our children.

Life after 30

EVERY GIRL, at one time or another, dreams of becoming a model. Teenagers practice swinging their mane of long, sun-streaked hair from side to side and try to look full-lipped and pouty just in case a model agency scout might discover them ordering a mocha-almond fudge double-decker in Baskin-Robbins or waiting to cross at the light in front of Carmel High.

Endless hours are spent in front of the mirror practicing the "look." Some attend modeling school and a few go on to model in local society fashion shows and shopping center openings. Their mothers watch, remembering their own fantasies.

Well, move over sweet16, the mom look is in. According to Ogilvy & Mather Public Relations, representing John Robert Powers Modeling Agency, "Four out of five of this year's Oscar nominees for best actress were women over 30. Leading ladies now include: Jane Fonda, Glenn Close, Meryl Streep, Angelica Huston, and Shirley MacLaine. What has become of the youth standard America has been famous for?

The aging baby boomer and her buying power is the reason the so-called "youth standard" has changed. Advertising people know that over-30s want to relate when they see an ad on TV or in a magazine and a flat-tummied, bronzed teenager romping on the beach is not a simpatico image for a woman with a career and/or a family. Why try to sell to kids who rely on their parents for allowance when you can pitch directly to the source of the funds?

The public relations spiel continues, "There are more than 80 million women over 30, representing 100 billion dollars worth of spending power. The face of the nation is changing." Laugh lines are in. Peaches and cream are out. Salt and pepper is hot, sun-streaks are not.

So here's a second chance mom. There are hundreds of beautiful women on the peninsula and many of them are over 30. Top model agencies are scouting for older models to fill the gap.

On Saturday, June 15, Fred Wilson, executive director of the John Robert Powers Modeling Agency will be in Monterey at Del Monte Center from noon to 4 p.m. to kick off the "Dove Classic Model Discovery," a nationwide search for women 30 or older to win a one-year modeling contract, $25,000 in cash and a $5,000 designer wardrobe.

GOOD SUDS

The "California Brewmasters Classic" sponsored by KAZU-FM and The Big Sur Land Trust, held recently at the Doubletree Inn, offered tastes of over 60 beers from micro-breweries located in Norway, London, The Ivory Coast and our own West Coast. Beer, like wine, comes in a variety of styles and flavors. Sweet, dry, dark, light, lager and ale. Beer brewers seem to be a more light-headed bunch than their enologist brothers. Witness a few labels: Killer Whale Amber Ale, Sea Lion Stout, Seismic Ale, Pelican Pale Ale and Barney Flats Oatmeal.

Wine-ese creeps into descriptions of the different brews: "Seabright Amber - full bodied and deep-copper red in color, this amber ale has a rich, malty aroma and flavor with an assertive hop character." Our favorite: "MAMBA, brewed in Abidjan, The Ivory Coast, is the blending of cool, clear subterranean spring waters fed from the Lake of the Sacred Crocodiles, magical tribal recipes and modern brewing technology." Are we ready to take beer seriously?

GORDON Paul Smith recently celebrated two milestones: his 75th birthday and the attainment of the $5 million goal of the Stanton Maritime Museum capital campaign. Smith, who has an excellent track record as a fund-raiser, has been active in the community for several years and was instrumental in convincing local benefactress Virginia Stanton to be a major donor to the Maritime Museum. The story goes that Paul took Virginia, who was leaning toward a performing arts center in Carmel at the time, to the Monterey wharf and in his vivid description of a maritime museum, sold her on the idea — right there on the spot.

HOUSE TOUR

Here comes Virginia again. Virginia Stanton, that is. Dressed in pink and ivory, she stepped up to the podium to acknowledge 30 years of what she called "twisting arms" in persuading her friends to open their Pebble Beach homes for the "30th Annual House Tour and Champagne Luncheon" for Fir Branch of Children's Hospital, Oakland.

Honorary Chairperson Stanton looked like a young ingenue, as she stood on tiptoe to reach the microphone and winked at Joyanne Kinosian. Joyanne's house, now under construction, is on Virginia's list for next year. This year, Dennis and Karen LeVett, Vaughan and Sally Feather, Bill and Lucy Reno and Tom and Jenifree Bruce agreed to open their homes to the tour.

The LeVetts, also honorary chairpersons, have made their homes available for two years in a row and this year proudly showed off their newly completed South African Cape Dutch mansion, filled with a personal collection of fine art, including two large canvasses by early California artist Francis McComas.

Pebble Beach Co. Executive Chef Beat Giger said it was a record for the Conference Center at The Lodge as 370 people from the East Bay Fir Branch enjoyed a mid-tour luncheon of artichoke soup, Chinese chicken salad and chocolate eclairs in raspberry sauce at the sold-out event. The ladies, and a sprinkling of men, bused to 17-Mile Drive from pickup points in Oakland, Lafayette and Rossmore. Eight busloads in all.

Each house made a personal statement for its owner. Conversations on the bus trip home must have touched on the Bruce's floating staircase, the Reno's collection of Baccarat newel post ornaments, the LeVett's padded powder room and the Feather's lifesize wild boar sculpture under the marble staircase. Little things that make a house a home.

IRONIES & INTRIGUES

BADGES! We don't need no stinking badges! Monterey County Sheriff's Department advisory council members are given the privilege of carrying official sheriff's badges, but a few members have flashed their stars at the wrong time and to the wrong people. Sheriff's Department officials are considering an official badge recall.

WHEN the war in the Persian Gulf officially ended, we recall U.S. military deaths reported at under 100. A Memorial Day listing of names added up to 387 Americans killed. Makes one wonder what facts and stats about this "war without a winner" will come to light in future months and years.

MANY parents are holding their breath and counting credits these last few days before graduation. One proud mother sees a bright future for her son on the brink of manhood, even though he told her he's been asked to be the lead singer for a rock group called the Humping Frogs. Pop says everyone should sing in a rock band sometime in their life.

THE American Institute of Wine & Food recently published its spring newsletter on Monterey Bay Chapter events of the preceding months. AIWF founder Julia Child was a special guest at a Chinese New Year celebration at The Inn at Spanish Bay and local AIWF Communications Chairman Michele Braden, described as a culti-

YOUTH NOTES By Pat Lenz

Remember the Maine

OVER THE past few weeks a film crew has been in town filming a documentary, for television, about Carmel. They have interviewed some of the long-time residents from the area, trying to capture some of the past history of the town. After talking to the elders in town, the crew brought their camera up to the Carmel Youth Center to interview some of the younger people, to find out about present-day Carmel.

They stopped off in the weight room, which was filled with the usual 25 to 30 kids that work out there during the week. First the kids were filmed during their workout lifting weights, then they were interviewed.

The first question asked was: "Did you like living in Carmel?" Their answers were, "Yes, No, Can you repeat the question," and "I refuse to answer on the grounds that it may incriminate me." Then they were asked where they went to school. Some of the answers were "Carmel High, Robert Louis Stevenson, All Saints, MPC, Can you repeat the question" and "I refuse to answer etc."

There were some other important questions asked, like "What is your shoe size, what is your mother's maiden name, what is the capital of Maine," and "Can you name the mayor of Carmel?" The only one they knew the answer to was the capital of Maine.

When the interviews were over, everyone was asked to sign a release so they could be shown on television. One of the kids refused to sign until the producer agreed to terms on royalty fees and any merchandising from the film.

When the film crew was finished with the kids in the weight room, they wanted to talk to and film a skateboarder. So a young man was smuggled into the youth center. He wished to remain anonymous since skateboarding is a criminal offense. He did a great job performing the moves, considering he had to wear a mask while skating.

The film crew hung around the center for a while filming the kids playing video games, playing pool, watching MTV, and eating fries.

So sometime this fall the rest of America will find out just what makes the kids of Carmel tick. Pumping Iron, riding skateboards, watching MTV, and knowing everything about the state of Maine.

Back to skateboarders: the Carmel Recreation Commission has a questionnaire out on the necessity of a skateboarding facility. If you are a skateboarder or know one, stop by the Carmel Youth Center and pick up the questionnaire. There is also a group that wants the city to do something for the surfers in the area. They are passing around a petition to try and get the city to put in a wave machine in Carmel Bay so they can surf even when there's no swell.

Some of you are probably wondering if I'm going to tell you what the capital of Maine is. Well you will just have to stop by the Carmel Youth Center and ask one of the kids.

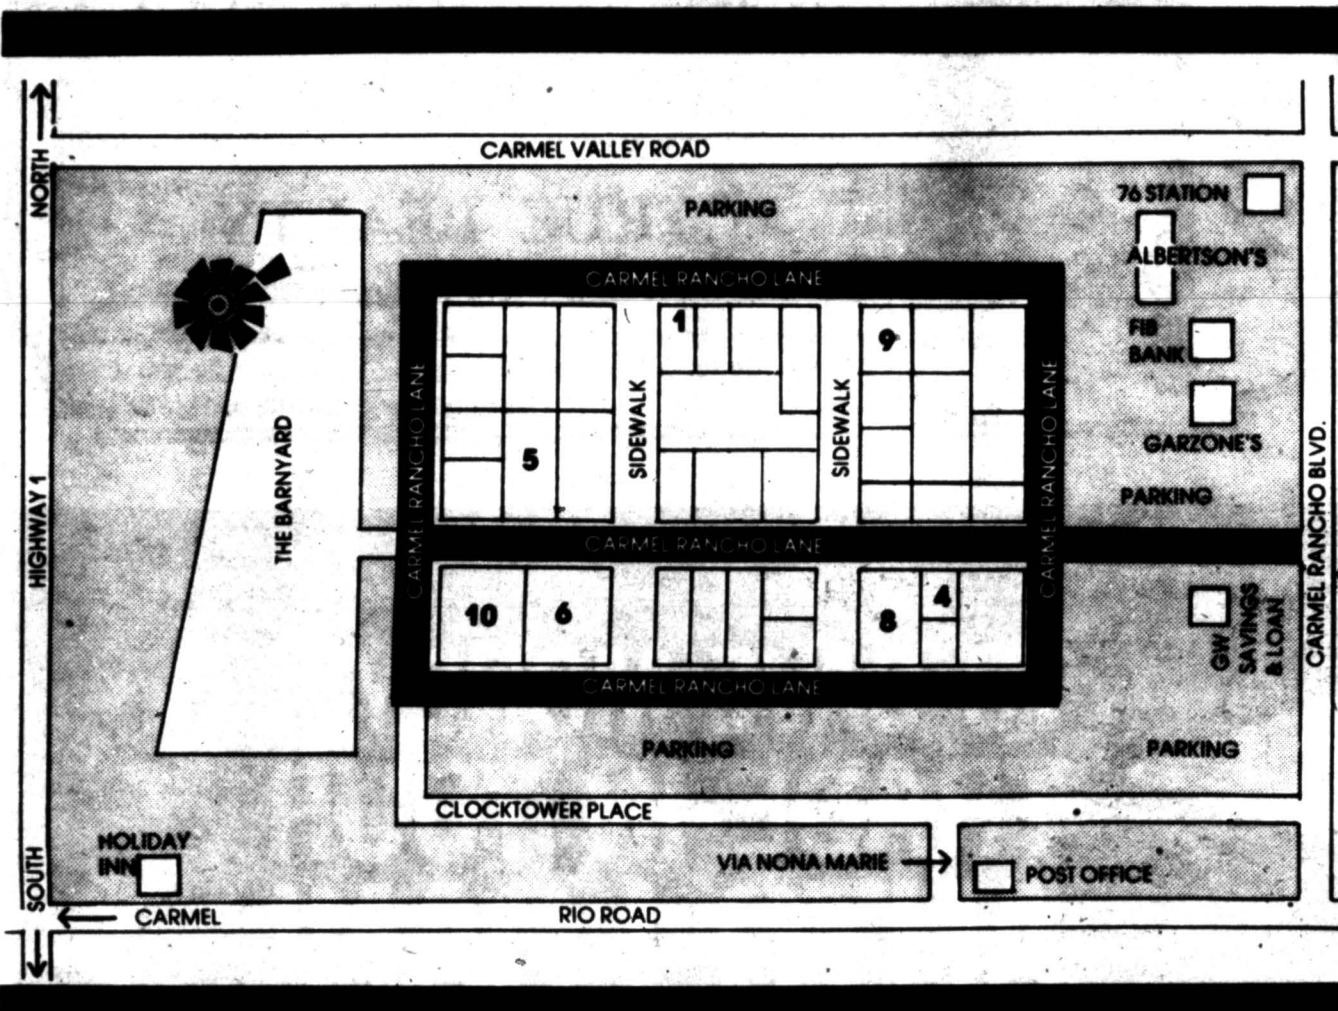

There are ways to stop abuse

Across the United States a woman is physically abused every 15 seconds. The YWCA of the Monterey Peninsula offers help to women who feel trapped in a potentially harmful situation through counseling, a 24-hour crisis line and a shelter for battered women and their children.

If you or someone you know is in an abusive relationship, let them know there is a way out.

COMING OF AGE

By Jennifer Dyer

Democracy and turning 18

A BIG milestone is coming my way. I turned 18 three months ago, and June 4 is significant because it marks the first time I get to exercise my right to vote in a democracy, something I've heard about since pre-school.

Late in May, three Monterey County Sample Ballots appeared in our mailbox. Two of the ballots were for my parents, and one was for me. The ballots were small — only two initiatives were inside: Measure A (the Carmel Unified School District Special Tax), and Measure M (Consolidation of Fire Districts 39 and 43). I had a fascinating feeling when I read the arguments and rebuttals over and made my decisions. I suddenly felt very mature and responsible, knowing that my vote would mean something, albeit a tiny little something. And then I got frightened, because I realized that other people's votes would mean something too, and if they made the wrong decisions, their votes could mean an awfully big something after all.

It's funny the way everyone thinks they're an expert. I like to read the newspaper every day, and of late, the editorial sections are full of people writing about Measure A. It seems that the old adage of there being two sides to every coin is particularly applicable to this situation; perhaps the Measure A coin possesses some extra sides as well. There are letters from people professing to be "learned sources." Then there are retired locals on fixed incomes who are understandably concerned about the $80 a year impact on their budget. And there are letters from people who support the initiative and are praying for its passage.

Everyone has an opinion, everyone thinks they are right. Being objective about such a subjective issue is nearly impossible. Measure A is not some benign controversy — rather, it's the only cure for the malignant financial shortage of the Carmel Unified School District. Its passage is critical. But there is so much hyperbole and propaganda going around, that it's tough to recognize the facts, and not the hype.

Bob Swartz, the Carmel High School coordinator of Measure A, says that "passage of Measure A is critical to the financial status of our district." Declining revenues have essentially paralyzed the district.

There are three main factors for the decrease in funds:

- The first was the passage of proposition 13, a controversial early-'80s initiative that took the set tax base of funds away from the individual school districts and used it for other purposes.

- The second was the court case of Serrano v. Priest, which said that funding for children in districts across the state must be equal. It took the money from previously wealthy districts and distributed it among poorer districts.

- The third factor is and was declining enrollment during the '80s. Carmel no longer receives funds based on ADA (Average Daily Attendance). Less children were attending Carmel Schools and CUSD became one of 15 districts in the state that received its revenue on a basic aid funding basis — regardless of student enrollment. Now, increasing student enrollment in the lower schools will not provide proportionately more funds from the government.

- The final misconception is that Lottery funding has solved the school's problems. In fact, only a minimal portion of the budget is derived from the lottery.

So, in a nutshell: less kids (but more coming), less money from the state because Carmel is a pricey retirement or second-home community, and less tax revenue equal dire straits for the Carmel Unified School District.

Previous boards were forced to make some choices when these factors first began to affect the schools in the mid-'80s. They decided to put the revenue into academic programs and maintain the quality of education in the district. They did an excellent job. Last year's senior class earned 98th and 96th percentiles in reading and math, respectively, on the statewide CAP tests, putting Carmel High School at 14th in the state of California in academics. Although the funds for this state-given test were cut off this year before the current senior class could check its progress, the quality of education at CHS has continued to rise. Top seniors are going to schools like Stanford University (2), the University of California at Berkeley (7), Cornell (1), Cal Poly (3), Whitman (1), UC Davis (5), Santa Barbara (13), San Diego (5), and Santa Cruz (4), USC (1), Pepperdine (1), Pitzer (1), and Sarah Lawrence College (2).

Unfortunately, the deferred maintenance that previous boards put off to maintain academic programs is catching up with the district. The physical facilities are basically in a state of disrepair. Major expense areas are bus replacements and the removal of carcinogenic asbestos. The average bus has 300,000 miles on its odometer. And ironically, the asbestos removal is state-mandated and must be done, yet with no financial help from the government. And there are no increases in funding in sight.

Measure A itself is a special election that requires a 66.7% majority to pass. Essentially, the initiative is a parcel tax that will require an $80 assessment on each parcel in the Carmel District for not more than four years. A popular misconception is that Measure A will last for a long time. There is no obligation after four years. This works out to about 22 cents a day, less than the price of a stamp, and less than $7 a month.

If passed, Measure A will generate $3.2 million over four years. That money can only be used for capital improvements, not for increased salaries or benefits. Bob Swartz believes that "if Measure A doesn't pass, the money that will be spent on capital improvements which are overdue, will be taken from the district's general fund and that will have severe impact on the quality of classroom education." That affects everything: fewer textbooks, larger class sizes, antiquated or no science equipment, et cetera. Who knows what the overall effect will be in 10 years? But if Measure A does pass, then Mr. Swartz says that "we'll be able to replace the buses, remove the asbestos, repair the leaky roofs, and take care of all the other deferments without sacrificing our excellent academic programs."

Having spent 13 years in the Carmel Unified School District, and as a senior at Carmel High, Measure A is an important issue to me and my family. After we seniors graduate, my parents and many of my friends' parents will no longer have children in the district. The funds from Measure A will not benefit them. But when June 4 arrives, many of these parents will support Measure A on an impersonal level — not because they have children in the district, but because they recognize that the future of our country lies in quality education for our children. They see that passage of the tax measure will benefit the whole of the community at a minimum expense to its residents.

Turning 18 was a big deal, and voting for the first time will be an incredible experience. I know that on June 4, I will vote for the very first time in an election that is extremely important to me. I recognize that my vote may only mean a tiny something, but if a lot of our somethings get together, then surely these tiny somethings will make an awfully big something after all.

Measure A is an important issue. Please take the time to vote "yes" on June 4.

New attitude at city hall regarding local businesses

By DON BOWEN

APRIL SEEMED like a good month for most Carmel business owners whom I spoke with. For some it was way above last April. Some of the top restaurants in the area are saying that their business has been very good since March...and they are looking forward to a great summer. What will obviously help a great deal also is that there is a new attitude being felt at City Hall regarding businesses. The crunch on city revenues has gotten their attention and, in turn, it would appear that the residents are also starting to finally realize that we provide a vital service to the community. In many respects the town is as beautiful as it is because of what comes from local businesses. Streets and trees are maintained beautifully, we have a very large police force for the size of our community, adjacent lands can be purchased by the city to protect what have in terms of natural beauty and restricting development.

Where else can you find a city with a population of under 5,000 that has a budget of $6 million or $7 million? So it's nice to know that both the city and the locals are finally starting to realize where all this money comes from...and, more importantly, what it does.

The Carmel business community, like most others around the country, has seriously felt the effects of a major earthquake, a war and a recession. In most other communities the city fathers have willingly dug into the town money box to help rebuild the town's economy...the small local businesses.

We are blessed in that we didn't experience damaged downtown buildings like some California communities...but in a way what we experienced was nearly as bad. We had to survive...and we had to survive without any assistance. I think it's time all of us who do love and cherish this community we live and work in re-examine our priorities.

For more information call Don Bowen at Carmel Business Sales at 625-5581.

Rep. Panetta seeks applicants for House page position

YOUNG MEN and women who are interested in serving as a page in the House of Representatives this fall were urged today by Rep. Leon E. Panetta (D-Monterey) to contact one of his offices as soon as possible to seek information on how to apply.

Panetta is authorized to appoint one of the 66 House pages. He is currently seeking applicants to serve from Sept. 2, 1991, to Jan. 24, 1992. Only students who will be in the 11th-grade this fall and who maintained at least a 3.0 grade point average in certain basic academic courses during ninth and 10th-grades are eligible.

Pages who serve during the school year must attend the House Page School, near the Capitol. School sessions begin early in the morning to allow pages to begin work when the House goes into session each day.

Page duties consist of delivering correspondence and small packages within Congress, answering telephones near the House floor, taking messages for House members, and other duties.

The deadline for submitting an application to Panetta's Monterey office is June 17, 1991.

Crimefighters' tips

Prevent shoplifting

EACH YEAR nationwide millions of dollars are lost in stolen merchandise due to shoplifting.

Not only is this loss felt by the merchants but the consumer ends up paying higher prices to cover rising insurance costs. Unfortunately, Carmel-by-the-Sea continues to experience its fair share of shoplifting losses.

The attraction of the village brings thousands of people daily, causing merchants to be overwhelmed by the crowds. While the crowds are great for business, they also provide additional concealment for shoplifters. The following tips are intended to help merchants and their employees prevent or detect shoplifting thefts.

1. Carefully watch the hands and arms of your customers. Be suspicious of any sudden, unusual or covert hand movement.
2. Beware of customers that loiter for an extended period of time without making any attempt to purchase an item.
3. Beware of customers who bring large, oversized purses or shopping bags into your store.
4. Watch for customers who nervously look around for no apparent reason. Watch for abnormal eye and neck movements, including shifting or jittery eyes that move in all directions.
5. Attempt to greet each customer who enters your store. This will help deter the potential shoplifter because he or she will know that there is a possibility that they will be identified later, even if they are successful in committing the theft.

The Carmel-by-the-Sea Police Department provides a complete "Crime Prevention Presentation" for business and residents. For information regarding the presentation, contact Sgt. William Uretsky or Officer Fay Patterson.

GRIFFIN EXCELLENCE IN TEACHING AWARDS PRESENTED

The 10th annual Allen Griffin Awards for Excellence in Teaching were presented to Nicole Feurer of Seaside High School and Elliot Roberts of Monterey Peninsula College in ceremonies at the Community Foundation's Monterey office on May 17. The two winners were chosen from among seven nominees from local schools, and each winner received a cash award of $1,600 and a commemorative plaque.

Nicole Feurer has been a Business Education teacher at Seaside High School since 1984, and is the chairperson of that department. For six years, she has been the advisor for the local chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America, which has over 100 active members. As part of their Community Service Project, the group has visited a local convalescent hospital, and has collected foods and other basic necessities for the needy. Ms. Feurer recently returned from a trip to the Soviet Union where she met with students as part of a New Forum Soviet/American teacher exchange program. In addition to these activities, she serves as a Cub Scout Den Leader, provides housing in her home for Hopkins Marine Station students, sponsors international families through the Naval Postgraduate School, and has volunteered at the Carmel Bach Festival, Volunteers in Action and Pacific Coast Church.

Elliot Roberts, a teacher of English, Humanities, Public Speaking and American Studies, has been with Monterey Peninsula College since 1965. He is involved with editing and publishing the annual MPC Journal, and coordinating seminars/workshops on and off campus in Literature, Poetry and Speech. He was co-editor of the Prentice-Hall college text Bridges (1972), as well as the translation of Sudha (Nectar) by Chalam (1990).

Previously he taught at Monterey College of Law, the University of San Francisco, the University of California at Berkeley, and Miami University in Ohio. His community service includes chairperson of the Humanities Division Book Grant Committee (1977 to present), executive board member and recording secretary of the American Civil Liberties Union of Monterey County (1990 to present), and area representative for the Carmel Highlands Disaster Plan Committee (1989 to present).

The foundation also congratulated and presented special plaques to the other outstanding teachers who were nominated: John G. Ellena who teaches social sciences at Carmel High School; Carol Young Ayres, a teacher of science at Pacific Grove High School; Edward A. Moos, who teaches Spanish at the Defense Language Institute; Jacolyn Harmer of the Translation and Interpretation Department at the Monterey Institute of International Studies; and Shakar Lal, a teacher of mechanical engineering at the Naval Postgraduate School.

The Griffin Awards were created by a bequest to the Community Foundation from the late Col. Allen Griffin, former owner and publisher of The Herald. Their purpose is to reward and stimulate outstanding teachers who also demonstrate an active commitment to their field and involvement in the community.

THE MONTEREY SPORTS CENTER MASCOTS ARE COMING

Monterey's answer to the California Raisins is almost here! On Saturday, June 1, Peninsula residents will get the chance to meet Monterey's newest citizens, the Monterey Sports Center mascots.

The mascots will meet their public at a Spirit Rally to celebrate the construction of the Monterey Sports Center and kick off a community-wide "Name the Mascots" contest. Although the description of these characters will be kept secret until the event, the crowd can expect to see them perform to the tune of their special theme song.

The Spirit Rally, which is being sponsored by The Herald, KCBA TV-35 and KWAV 97 FM will be held at Jacks Park, located at the corner of Franklin and Adams Streets in Monterey. Festivities will begin at 1 p.m. with entertainment that includes performances by the Bow Williams Band and the Monterey Community Band. Cheerleaders from the local high schools will compete for prizes in a "Battle of the Cheerleaders" contest that challenges them to create an original cheer to celebrate the Monterey Sports Center and its programs.

And that's just the beginning! There will be clowns, face painting, balloons, juggler/magicians, and giveaways for all. Light refreshments will be available for purchase, as will T-shirts and sports bottles featuring the colorful Monterey Sports Center logo.

The Monterey Sports Center, operated under the auspices of City of Monterey Recreation and Community Services Department, is slated to open late spring 1992, and will offer a wide range of recreational activities for residents of the Monterey Peninsula. It will house two swimming pools, a gymnasium that can accommodate up to three court games simultaneously, and an exercise-weight room, as well as full locker and shower facilities and a variety of other rooms to accommodate the Recreation and Community Service Department's many activities and programs.

THE CARMEL RIVER STEELHEAD ASSOCIATION CALLS FOR VOLUNTEERS

The Carmel River Steelhead Association (CRSA) is asking for volunteers to help in their steelhead rearing program.

During the next few weekends the CRSA will be refurbishing a former fish rearing pond to provide habitat for some 50,000 juvenile steelhead trout. Limited space at the hatchery makes it necessary to move these fish to a larger facility, and this large pond must be worked on before the fish can be transferred into it.

Volunteers will be working on a beautiful creek that flows all year, even during the drought. They are asked to wear old clothes and bring work gloves. And, also bring a lunch to picnic at this special location. For further information; when and where to meet, etc., interested volunteers should call Vern Sciochetti at 659-4688 or Bob Stevens at 624-8751.

This restoration work will take place Saturday and

The Monterey College of Law is presenting a program on "Sexual Harassment in the Workplace" on Thursday, June 6 at the Monterey Conference Center (Ferrante Rooms). The time is 7-9 p.m. and the fee is $10.

The program is planned to be of interest to employers and employees and other members of the general public who seek to better understand the current law. The speakers will be three prominent local attorneys, who have years of experience in cases concerning sexual harassment and other employment laws: Susan M. Dauphine, Charles R. Keller, and Michelle A. Welsh.

A growing number of employment discrimination complaints allege sexual harassment. The Fair Employment and Housing Commission regulations define sexual harassment as unwanted sexual advances, or visual, verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature. The speakers will clarify legal definitions and suggest remedies and procedures to prevent sexual harassment from occurring in the first place. Printed materials will be available and there will be opportunity for general questions from the audience.

This class is one of a series of Community Legal Education programs offered throughout the year on subjects of general interest. For more information on this or other programs, or to register for the class, call the law school at 373-3301.

VALLEY SCHOOL JOINS "COMMIT TO GET FIT" PROGRAM

Carmel Valley's school will participate in Commit to Get Fit — a national, month-long program conducted in partnership with the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports and aimed at helping people of all ages establish regular exercise routines.

Tularcitos School and Recreation Center will be among hundreds of schools throughout the U.S. and Canada participating in a program encouraging more Americans and Canadians to make moderate exercise a part of their lives.

Carmel Valley Racquet Club will join with Tularcitos in providing an ongoing presentation of "fitness for children," including aerobic conditioning, flexibility techniques, and strength training. In addition, Carmel Valley Racquet Club will provide a Family Fitness Day at the club site, including healthy food and beverage tables, blood pressure and cholesterol testing, swimming, games, and information on keeping the body healthy and fit.

Now in its third year, the Commit to Get Fit program was started in response to a U.S. government report showing that American children and adolescents had fallen far short of achieving health objectives that were set for the nation a decade ago. The Department of Health and Human Services has made a goal that by 1990, 90 percent of children and teenagers would be participating in regular cardiorespiratory activities. The goal has not been reached. "Progress toward achievement of this objective will require educational and promotional efforts at the state and local levels," the report concluded.

The goal of Commit to Get Fit and Carmel Valley Racquet Club is to educate the public about the value of regular, moderate exercise. During May, Carmel Valley Racquet Club is joining Tularcitos and more than 1,000 health and racquet spot clubs throughout the U.S. in providing activities for fun and fitness.

"At the heart of Commit to Get Fit is a desire to show people of all ages that regular, moderate exercise is something anyone can do and enjoy," said Peggy Tobin, fitness director of Carmel Valley Racquet Club. "You don't have to be an athlete to obtain the life-saving benefits of fitness."

"Our goal for Commit to Get Fit is to start helping Monterey Peninsula kids to learn about the value and benefits of fitness. Get children into fitness at an impressionable age, and they'll be fit for life."

The Golden Years

By Miles Williams

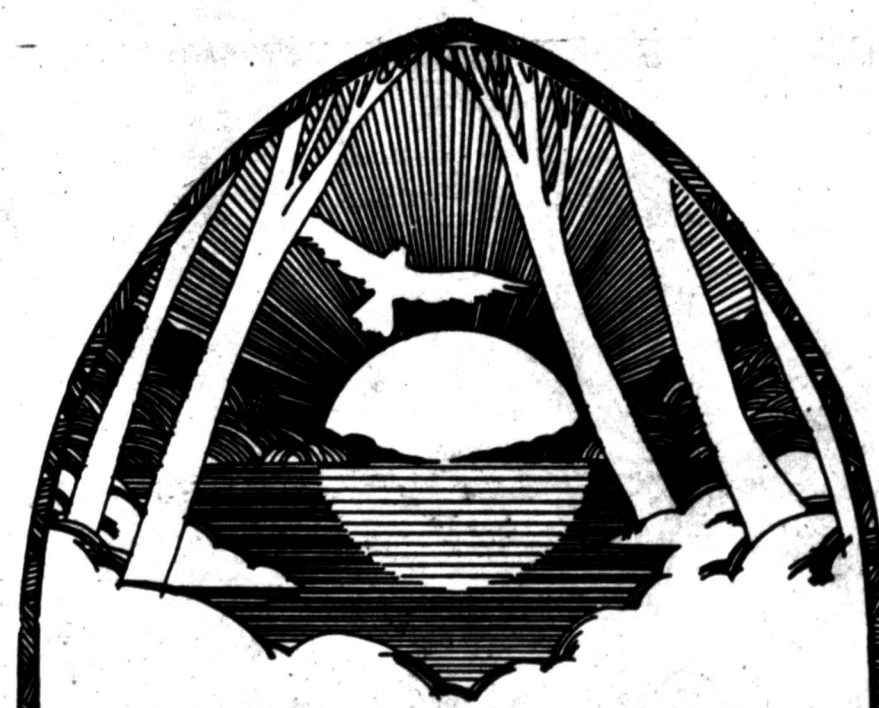

Look at the aging process this way, the National Institutes of Health (NIH) advises: Because aging is so gradual, it gives people time to adjust to changes occurring in the body, mind and daily living environment. NIH's booklet, "Older & Wiser," points out that, "although body and mind may exhibit some deterioration and a greater susceptibility to disease...the healthy human spirit has the ability to compensate for certain age-related shortcomings such as mild memory loss or limitations on physical mobility." Summarizing 30 years of research into the aging process, the booklet offers this advice: "Live the years of your life with vigor and exuberance, and chances are you will enjoy the golden years."

For Bob Conn, the joy of flying lies largely in designing and building his own planes. A Mechanical engineer, he built his first plane while in his thirties. In his seventies, he completed near Daytona Beach, Florida. He didn't quit after he had to crash-land the first plan he built.

Remember When? July 30, 1965 - President Lyndon Johnson signed laws creating Medicare and Medicaid. He described Medicare as "a prudent, feasible and dignified way to free the aged from fear of financial hardship in the event of illness."

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

So long, Alan

From the June 2, 1983
Carmel Pine Cone

Oh Almighty and Eternal God, we humbly ask The to bless this food to our use and to touch our heart Thy love so that we in turn may love one another.

Yesterday we received a letter from our outgoing president Alan Brenner—a fare-the-well State of the Union Message. He called our attention to the Rotary Goal of the (1982-83) of the international president Hirogi Mukasa, "Build Bridges of Understanding." Alan ended his epistle with the words, "Your for bigger and better bridges." A noble sentiment indeed!

The builder of bridges or pontifex is a very ancient Roman title and symbol of service. It comes from the Latin words, "pons," a bridge and "facere," to make. They control the laws of worship, of Vesta, the deity of the hearth, the Vestal virgins and the regulation of the calendar. The Holy Father, as Bishop of Rome, has the title of Pontifex Maximus and today the first Polish Pope is doing a splendid job of bridge-building.

Oh Lord, be pleased to keep Alan Brenner as a member in good standing of the Bridge-Builders Union—not just supplying washers, but huge stones and strong steel cables so that we as Carmel Rotarians, together with him, may stand strong against the swift stream and the powerful floods of prejudice and misunderstanding.

School Administrators.

Sure, the Measure A, is unfair to the ranchers and the retirees and most of all senior citizens who are on fixed incomes depending on social security and little more. Why at this time of their lives are they asked to help support these children of young parents?

Seniors have paid their dues, educated their children and am sure continued the same concern with their grandchildren.

If life is so precious to the profilers, why are they not the ones who are providing the support for the over administrated school system?

Isn't it time to leave seniors alone, while we live out our existence.

R.C. Cahall
Carmel

Urge "Yes" on "A"

Dear Editor:

As a Carmel High School Grad, concerned parent of two Carmel High School students, and lifelong resident of the Monterey Bay Area I urge everyone in the Carmel Unified School District to vote "Yes" on Measure A!

Our buses are ancient...one is even 32 years old, the district needs to eliminate potentially harmful asbestos and correct many other safety hazards. These things must be done, and should not have to be done at the expense of academic programs, teacher training, special projects and educational materials.

Give our students and, consequently, our futures a brighter outlook by providing the necessary revenue to keep the excellent quality of instruction and curriculum they deserve.

Get out and vote on June 4. Measure A needs a two-thirds majority to pass. Don't jeopardize the futures of our children.

Pat Miniaci

Many thanks

Dear Editor:

Many thanks to Clint Eastwood for his generous support in helping to form the Central Coast Desalination Exchange.

This organization has been formed to exchange information on central coast desalination projects with the objectives of speeding-up project timeliness, resolving issues and reducing costs.

Simply stated, the purpose of the Exchange is to avoid reinventing the wheel. Clint made the facilities of Mission Ranch available for the first meeting of the Exchange. He was also the host for a reception for members of the Exchange including representatives from Santa Barbara, Goleta, San Luis Obispo, the Monterey Peninsula, Marina, Marin and the California Department of Water Resources.

Due in good part to Clint's help, the Exchange is now a going organization.

NOTES

Recording artists perform for festival recital series

By J.R. FOWLER, JR.

THE FESTIVAL'S recital series is the perfect way to hear and see major festival performers in solo or small ensemble presentations. Mark your calendar for Wednesday afternoons, July 17, 24 and 31 at 2:30 p.m. A varied program featuring outstanding musicians from around the world.

1. The Suite for Trumpet by Georg Friedrich Handel. The trumpet will be played by the festival's brass leader and principal trumpet Wolfgang Basch.

Mr. Basch has performed all over Europe, including the London Bach Festival, and will soon appear in Japan. Mr. Basch is principal trumpet with the Frankfurt Opera House and Museum Orchestra. He records for RCA in Europe and North America.

2. The cantata "Su le sponde del Tebro," by Domenico Scarlatti, will feature the festival's baroque violinist, Michael Sand.

Mr. Sand has established himself as one of the foremost baroque violinists in America. Sand, a founding member of the Philharmonia Baroque Orchestra and a member of the Boston Early Music Festival Orchestra, has been praised by Isaac Stern as "a most convincing argument for the baroque violin." In great demand as a guest musical director and lecturer, Sand has led chamber orchestras in Tel Aviv; Portland, Ore.; and Sydney, Australia. Mr. Sand records for Harmonia Mundi and Titanic Records. He has been a member of the Carmel Bach Festival orchestra for several years.

3. American born Israeli clarinetist Eli Eban will be featured in the Quintet for Clarinet and Strings written by Mozart.

After graduation from the Curtis Institute of Music Mr.

JESSE READ, Bassoonist

Eban was principal clarinetist with the Israel Radio Orchestra and then joined the Israel Philharmonic Orchestra where he appeared as soloist under the baton of Zubin Mehta. Mr. Eban has appeared with the English Chamber Orchestra, the Marlboro Music Festival and last year joined the faculty of the Indiana University School of Music. Mr. Eban records for Meridian Records in England. This is Mr. Eban's first appearance with the Carmel Bach Festival.

4. The Sonata for Bassoon and Continuo in F by Telemann features bassoonist Jesse Read.

Mr. Read was recently appointed to the faculty of the School of Music, University of British Columbia, in Vancouver. He directs the performance program, conducts the university orchestra and teaches bassoon. Read is a frequent guest soloist with baroque orchestras world-wide, and has made many recordings on the Phillips, Elana and Etcetera Records labels. He is a CBF master class teacher and clinician during the special working sessions the festival stages with Youth Music Monterey's Summer Classical camp. Mr. Read returns to the Carmel Bach Festival for his 11th summer.

If you would like additional information about an event or a musician featured in this year's festival, or mentioned in this column please feel free to call me at 624-1521.

Stirring 'Kirkin o' the Tartan' ceremony set Sunday

THE ANNUAL Kirkin O' the Tartan, a special church service sponsored by the Scottish Society of the Monterey Peninsula, will begin at 3 p.m., Sunday, June 2 in the Carmel Mission Basilica.

The public is invited to attend the colorful and stirring ceremony which will be conducted by Monsignor Declan Murphy and assisted by The Rev. Michael Bell of the church and a panel of clerks from various peninsula churches.

The bagpipes and drums of the First Salinas Valley Highlanders Pipe Band and kilted members of the Society will participate. Mary Margaret Graham of Carmel will be soprano soloist. Myron McTavish of Salinas will serve as organist.

The traditional conclusion of the service is a presentation by members of the congregation of their family tartans carried to the altar while the roll of the clans is called by Leslie L. Close, a member of the Society's board of governors. The blessing of the tartans will be by the Rev. William A. Boyd, chaplain to the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula.

Stephen Henderson of Carmel is president of the society; Jeff Craig, of Pebble Beach, is chairman of the event.

One great dividing line in Scottish history was the Jacobite Rising of 1745 against the English. After the defeat of Scottish Prince Charles Edward Stuart and his Highland followers at the Battle of Culloden in 1746, the Parliament in London passed various laws aimed at disarming the Highland Scots and destroying their strong clan spirit by prohibiting the wearing of traditional Highland dress.

The ban lasted for 36 years, and after Parliament repealed that act in 1782, there was a joyous resurgence in the wearing of the tartan.

When King George IV made his first excursion north of the Border in 1822, he wore the kilt; Sir Walter Scott, the famous writer, stage-managed the ceremonies and the tartan flourished throughout Edinburgh. George's niece, Queen Victoria, was proud of her Stuart ancestors and took up the tartan with a passion: Her Balmoral Castle burgeoned with tartan furnishings and kilted gillies during her long 19th-century reign.

In the 1940s in the United States, a Scotsman, the late Dr. Peter Marshall, chaplain of the U.S. Senate, introduced a special service in his Washington, D.C., church to pay tribute to the traditional Highland dress, its ancient history and its place in Scottish life. Since that time, members of the Scottish societies and associations through the nation have observed "The Kirkin' O' the Tartan" in a ceremony that combines the color and stirring music and spirit of Old Caledonia with Christian prayer, meditation, thanksgiving and hymns in the New World.

As this unique church service concludes, society members (and members of the public whose heritage is Scottish) carry to the altar colorful scarves of their family tartans, which are blessed by the clergy.

Barbara Higbie closes out series at Hidden Valley

THIS FRIDAY, May 31, Hidden Valley's Friday at 8:00 series concludes with Barbara Higbie in concert. The Windham Hill recording artist, best known as the keyboardist in the band, Montreux, brings flavors of jazz, Brazilian, folk and pop to her concerts. Tickets are $10 and will be available at the door or through Center Stage Ticketing. Box office opens 7:30 p.m. and the performance starts at 8. Beverages and snacks will be available. You are welcome to bring your own wine. Hidden Valley is 11.2 miles east of Highway 1 on Carmel Valley Road. For more information, call 659-3115.

THEATER REVIEW

By Joe Guzaitis

Ribald Roman revel

THE PREMIERE offering of the Monterey Bay Theater-Fest this year is A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum. The book is by Burt Shevelove and Larry Gelbart. Music and lyrics are by Stephen Sondheim. The show is being performed under the Big Top in Monterey's Custom House Plaza, which gives it a not unwelcome circus flavor.

A delightful comedy of plots and deceptions, the play takes place in ancient Rome, about 200 B.C., a simpler time, when the biggest concern a man had, it seems, was how many concubines he could afford. An abbreviated plot follows:

Senex and Domina (Michael Robbins and Lyn Whiting) have left their son, Hero, in the close care of the boy's wily slave Pseudolus so that Hero doesn't get into mischief while they're gone to the country. Hero, however, has fallen in love with the concubine Phillia, who has been sold to a Roman General Miles Gloriosus. Hero has promised Pseudolus his freedom if he can get Phillia for him. Pseudolus wants his freedom badly. Hysterium, faithful slave to the old couple, must now resist Pseudolus in his quest for Phillia. A way must be found to trick the Roman Captain out of his "paid for" goods so that Hero and Phillia can live happily ever after.

It ain't easy. Add to the plot numerous diversions like a clutch of concubines, a trio of eunuchs, and a troop of soldiers (played by a pride of Proteans). There's also a mistaken identity bit, long-lost children, and much running about. For the most part, it is nicely managed and very funny.

Pseudolus is the master of ceremonies and star of the show. He is the mover and the shaker, and the actor playing this role needs a lot of presence and vitality to carry it off. Not to worry. John Rousseau's beaming face and antic demeanor reassures us from the start that we're in good hands. John has been so good in so many good roles in GroveMont productions that his stage presence has reached a highly polished luster. The extra bits of business he throws in now and then, make the show shine. He is a very funny man.

The aptly named Hysterium is played by Michael Jacobs, a peninsula veteran with many excellent credits also. He does his best to keep the frantic pace going with or without his fright wig. After a while, we laugh before he opens his mouth. He has us where he wants us with a grin or a wink.

Marcus Lycus is played by Bill Lindsay, a peninsula regular who depicts the strenuous problems of the retail concubine trade. He also plays a good leper and a monk. Bill continues to be one of our fine character actors. Kevin Nolan Caston plays Miles Gloriosus, the Roman Captain. He marshals up some good swagger and bluster and gives us a proper Roman officer in heat. I've seen him in several military roles, but he's also capable of superb civilian roles as in the recent Burn This at MPC.

The nubile leads are Hero, played by Christopher John Anderson, and Phillia, played by Jessica Ann Stevenson.

Both of these young artists have accumulated fine credits locally. Christopher plays Hero as suitably ga-ga for the lovely Phillia. Jessica puts a very funny ditz spin on her foolish virgin and it works quite well. There are too many in the cast to recognize everyone, but there were no weak links.

Steve Judge's set is excellent, complete with Carey Crockett's fine frescoes, pillars, and circuitous passages. These are all necessary for the hugger-mugger that ensues and they are used well. One funny detail in the midst of all this authenticity was the doors — they look like they came from a salvage sale at a Ramada Inn. Somewhat anachronistic. The lighting design by Roe Reed was well done and used dramatically at times. Sherlyn Clark's costumes were very appropriate and rich looking.

Director Norman Stottmeister selected this delightful comedy and staged it well.

There are a few aspects that I was bothered by, however. The "fire drill" in Act Two should be cut a bit. It's simply too long. By this time the audience has thoroughly enjoyed all the running around it can take and it's time to press for resolution. Another touch I didn't like was the endowing of one of the courtesans with Dolly Parton-esque mammaries. Rather than being amusing it seemed to me to be puerile. It's too cheap a comic shot for this level of theater. A last gripe concerns makeup. Senex and Domina, Hero's parents, are made up to look like they're decrepit. Rather than having lined faces, they appear to be black and blue as if the victims of a beating.

Stephen Tosh's music was lively and up to the challenge the show presented. In the beginning, a spiky-haired conductor in rumpled tuxedo brings a boom box on stage and proceeds to direct the overture, dropping his sheet music on the floor, etc. I smiled at the joke but I also wanted a proper overture. I would hope the synthesizer could be brought in to reinforce the boom box in order to enhance the sound so we can have it both ways...or something.

A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum plays Thursdays through Saturdays, 8:30 p.m. (note the late curtain), May 23 through June 22. Dress warmly just in case the fog rolls in.

Aliens sighted

LAST FRIDAY former PG resident Dan Miller had The Club of Monterey reserved for people to apply as actors, extras and technicians for a film he is producing and guess what? Nobody showed up.

Well, undaunted Miller has again reserved The Club from noon to 3 p.m. this Thursday, May 30 for those interested in appearing in the film, I Was There the World Ended.

This is not an audition, however. Miller is merely taking applications for those interested in getting involved in the venture, which he calls the "lowest budget sci-fi film ever." Nobody's getting paid up front, but should the film get picked up and eventually make it to the big screen (or at least to the video store), there'll be rewards for the patient faithful.

"Hopefully everyone's going to get paid; everyone will share in the rewards if it makes it," Miller said. "It's a small commitment, but it's a commitment (on the part of everyone who wants to get involved)."

All actors, technicians, prop people, even extras are invited to come down and apply for positions on the film, whether it's in front of the camera or behind. All one need to do is show up in person and bring a photo of themselves (or bring a friend's photo if he or she can't make it). There will be forms to fill out once there. Either that or mail a photo and resume to Miller at PO Box 850, Pacific Grove, CA.

I Was There the Day the World Ended is about an alien who visits Earth who feels compelled to fight a duel for the fate of the world with an obnoxious comedian he feels insulted him. Who knows, this thing could turn out to be this year's The Attack of the Killer Tomatoes.

BLUES FANS should be out in force come Thursday, May 30 for a return appearance at Doc's by the great Chris Cain Band. Monterey Peninsula fans have always been hip to Cain's basso profundo voice and B.B. King/Albert King guitar stylings, so this is a sort of a homecoming for the San Jose-based artist. He's also riding high on the success of his latest recording, Cuttin' Loose, which has been touted in recent weeks as the most played blues album in the country. It's a gem. Check out I'm Going Through a Love Detox, now that's the blues!

Cain and band plays Doc's for three acts all night long starting at 9 p.m. Tickets are only $5 at the door.

Other acts coming to Doc's in June: flamenco/jazz artists Strunz and Farah on Tuesday, June 4; harp master Charlie Musselwhite returns to Doc's on Monday, June 10 with Del Rey and the Blues Gators; and local boy made good (in Nashville), Don Henry, with the always-enjoyable Alisa Fineman on Wednesday, June 12.

HERE'S THE lineup for this year's Monterey Bay Blues Festival, which is slated for Saturday and Sunday, June 22 and 23, at the Monterey Fairgrounds. Performances will be held at both the Garden and Main stages, with the garden Stage show open to both reserved seat ticketholders as well as those with Grounds Admission tickets, and Main Stage shows for reserved seat ticketholders only.

Saturday June 22, the 12:30 p.m. afternoon show: Paul Soderman, Bobby Rush, Johnny Heartsman Revue and John Mayall. Saturday, 7 p.m. show: Otis Clay, Clarence Carter and Betty Wright. Sunday, June 22 a 12:45 p.m. start: Robben Ford, Ester Jones, Charles Brown, Dr. John, and Etta James.

By far Sunday night's show is the most powerful with nary a weak link, starting with Robben Ford's accessible fusion-blues; Ester Jones, Charles Brown's classy, smooth-as-silk singing and piano playing; Dr. John's rollicking Louisiana gumbo; and Etta James' kick-butt, down-and-dirty blues Saturday's early show could be the weekend's most intriguing, a blue collar blues fan's blues show, from relative newcomer Soderman to Father of British Blues, John Mayall, who was the best thing about the blues festival about three years.

And by far Saturday evening's 's show is the most disposable, except perhaps for little-known but seminal R&B pioneer Otis Clay, who, like Charles Brown, is making a comeback of sorts. A variety of ticket packages are available, including box seats for the entire weekend, but I'd suggest opting for Sunday if you can attend only one and Saturday afternoon as a second choice. As for Saturday night, check out Otis Clay by all means, but my suggestion is to check out the action on the Garden Stage for the next two acts, the tired Clarence Carter and the Nast-as-she-wants-to-be Betty Wright. For ticket information call 394-2652.

THE FIRST shows at Paul Masson Summer Series 1991 begin this weekend with three shows in three days by the Bay Area vocal gymnast Bobby McFerrin, performing with the San Jose Symphony.

The event, which will also feature camping swimming, food booths, arts and crafts and special children's programs, is a benefit for the Monterey Bay Girl Scout Council. Tickets, available at the gate or through BASS outlets, are $10 each day, $5 each day for children and seniors, with children 5 and under free. Info's at 633-2484.

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Personal power designs

SO WHATS the big sickness? Elected reps and hired hands treating public money like private fuel for personal power designs. The game's just about over at too many cities and school districts throughout our land. We learn that selfishness never produces fiscal policy that works — and the kids pay and pay in ways they cannot yet analyze.

Against this painfully real backdrop, Youth Music Monterey keeps its commitment to teen musicians and singers. Folks who steer the organism see that high-quality education's much more than myth or nice idea. Faculty rosters for summertime programs at Robert Louis Stevenson School show that Youth Music Monterey moves outward from a center of positive caring and knowhow. That's the cure.

Once again, Eastman School of Music collaborates with local organizers. The Jazz Camp runs from June 23-July 12. Vocal Campers get their due a bit later (7/21-8/2). And special workshops for teachers look very good indeed.

Background material packs the various brochures. Jazz Camp teachers exemplify general excellence: James Doser (sax and coordinator), Paul Contos (sax), Brian Scanlon (sax), John Coppola (trumpet), Jeff Holmes (trumpet), Robert Hudson (trombone), Matt Harris (piano), Don Kasper (bass), Roland Wilcox (drums), Bruce Forman (guitar). Men who educate, play professionally, compose, arrange, know the scene. Saxist Ramon Ricker and pianist Bill Dobbins will appear as special guest artists.

Students get big band, combo performance, jazz history, ear training, theory, improvisation. Those students whose theory skills are most advanced will have the opportunity to develop their writing skills ... Fundamentals of instrumental technique are stressed in private lessons and master classes. Pros and students offer free public concerts.

Fee schedules? Scholarship possibilities? The specific credits of instructors? Whatever's not in the information packet may be addressed via conversation with Youth Music staffers. Simply call and ask (375-1992).

"I must mention the five-day workshop for music teachers on July 8-12. Dobbins and Ricker will go into building a school jazz program. Monterey County teachers are guests of Monterey Jazz Festival. Four units of credit available through San Jose State University."

The late Ruth Fenton inspired all this and effected the working agreement with Eastman. She would be proud of the manner in which her legacy gains practical perpetuation.

IT WILL BE my big fun to appear with poet John Dotson over his radio show called Ars Poetica. Tuesday night (6/4) and KAZU-FM (90.3). From seven till eight o'clock.

I'll read from the recently-completed novel about late jazz vocalist Carol Mildon. She grew up here and once jammed with Mingus on solo piano (he studied under Art Tatum). At the old Basin Street West of San Francisco:

"This your man?" Mingus asked her.

"Yes," Carol said.

"Tell your man he got a tiger child on his hands."

BRAVERY AND rare beauty—pretty good subjects. They emerged during the local gigs of multiple reedman John Cortes and Bulgarian pianist Milcho Leviev.

Cortes didn't say so. Someone else mentioned the fact that then was confirmed by John's wife. The man's back had gone out; he suffered severe pain throughout sets at Barbara Murphy's Portofino Coffee House.

The audience couldn't tell. He joked between tunes, as usual, and played admirably. His alto sound's tough, witty, tuneful. Ballads on soprano and bery made the house forget to breathe.

Once again, John Donaldson's electric piano swung purely. Drummer Bob Blankenship has integrated a Moroccan hand drum into his trap attack most effectively—tasty touches. Steve Burstyn on bass also may be heard regularly in a duo setting with pianist Alan Berman at Monterey Bay Club.

Ken and Victoria Weeks of Shanty Malone's (along with event coordinator Bobby Phillips) deserve thanks for presenting Leviev. He jammed with locals, but it was the Sunday afternoon solo set that catalyzed for listeners something very close to awe. Classical training made him a truly two-handed player; the terribly strong left had its own mind and anchored textured forays into unusual and difficult time structures.

Everything he did was compelling—Bach praises, Chopin etude, crystalline samba written for his wife Deborah, bluesy romps that incorporated stride and boogie woogie figures and hardy bop. Never before have I heard a pianist quote both Waller and Tristano within the same tune—each master was respected via his own sound and balanced placement as part of the working whole.

Milcho turned a Bulgarian women's dance into layered and driving jazz. One segment from a Leviev film score (a prostitute's Monday morning) was so picture-packed that one's head reeled behind the dramatic juxtapositions. If this fellow cannot be called a genius, the word has no meaning.

Other musicians agreed—jazz writer and keyboardist Bill Minor, Berman, harpist Amy Krupski, Kenny Stahl the flute man, so on. Bill: "I love the Slavic stuff. Raw in the sense of no inhibitions." Amy: "He opened my heart, made me want to go back to piano."

The artist calls Los Angeles home these days and teaches in jazz studies at USC. Voice of America's famed Willis Conover turned him on to the music, Milcho said during a chat. "Willis was our god, our conservatory. We taped every show and studied it."

Leviev expressed excitement over a trio he formed with drummer Tootie Heath and "this wonderful young violinist named Karen Briggs." New CDs were recorded for Todd Garfunkel's MA label (Japan) and Balkan Tone Records (back in Bulgaria). Release dates unknown at this point.

"Los Angeles? The same old thing. We go to Japan and Europe each year in order to work enough," he said with a somewhat sad smile. "That's why it's especially nice to visit our friends here and play for such a positive hometown crowd."

SIGHT BITES: Hidden Valley Music Seminars presents pianist Barbara Highbie on Friday night (5/31) starting at eight o'clock. It's $10 per with ducats available there a half hour before kick-off. Or use Center Stage Ticketing. Highbie's a Windham Hill recording artist and a former member of the band Montreux.

Trombonist Ray Anderson leads his quartet into Kuumbwa Jazz Center of Santa Cruz on Monday evening (6/3). At $12 apiece; eight o'clock start; Center Stage Ticketing. Ray's vocals often remind listeners of Pops Armstrong.

Strong acts coming up at The Catalyst in Santa Cruz — Pete Escovedo Orchestra (5/31) and Junior Walker and his All-Stars (6/1). Gary Tighe mans the entertainment office (1-425-7799).

Lillian

Nick Zanides will direct Rosamond Goodrich in the one-woman play, Lillian, at the Cherry Foundation in Carmel. The Monterey Peninsula College production will open Friday, May 31 and will play at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, with 2 p.m. matinees Sundays through June 22.

Written by William Luce, the play is based on the autobiographical writings of Lillian Hellman. The play presents a sensitive, revealing portrait of one of theater's immortals. Hellman's feisty, combative persona and the compassionate, humorous woman known only to her friends and family are captured in the work.

As Lillian sits in the waiting room of a New York hospital where her long-time companion, Dashiell Hammett, lies near death, she reflects on her relationship with the writer, and her own life, from childhood to her days as artist and public figure committed to liberal causes. She recalls the people and incidents that have shaped her life, glittery figures from Hollywood and the New York theater, literary giants and beloved personal associates.

Tickets for Lillian are $8 general and $6 for students, military and senior citizens. They can be reserved through Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561. Cherry Hall is at Guadalupe and Fourth in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

'Driving Miss Daisy'

REGINA HICKS, John D'Auria and Brad Vaughn share the stage in the GroveMont Theater production of Driving Miss Daisy. Final performances are set at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, May 30 through June 1 at the GroveMont Theater Arts Center, 320 Hoffman (at Lighthouse) in New Monterey. For tickets, call 649-6852 or 649-5561.

Meet the gang

STREET GANGS take center stage in the Monterey Peninsula College Theatre Company staging of West Side Story. Gang members include Jason Vandervort, Randy Rock and Dale Robinson, top; Matt Davis, Eric Sassman, Nicole DiFranco, Robert Basgall and Andy Amos. Tickets are available through Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561, and the MPC box office, 646-4213.

Actors in the Adobes

Admission is free to Actors in the Adobes, staged Saturdays through Sept. 7 at the historic adobes of downtown Monterey. The opening production features Morgan Stock as Walter Colton. Colton will describe early Monterey history at, appropriately, Colton Hall.

Performances begin at 10:45 a.m. Colton Hall is on Pacific between Madison and Jefferson streets.

A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum

The 1991 Monterey Bay TheatreFest, a community outreach program of the GroveMont Theater, has begun in the "Big Top" tent erected in Monterey's Custom House Plaza. The tent is the setting for the musical, A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, by Burt Shevlov, Larry Gelbart and Stephen Sondheim. Forum marries the illogicalities of ancient Roman farce with the zany nonsense of vaudeville. It won a Tony Award for best musical/best book.

The production runs 8:30 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays until June 22.

Tent show prices are $10 general, $8 for students and senior citizens, and $5 for children under 12 and GroveMont Season Ticket Holders. The "Big Top" is located in the Upper Custom House Plaza at the top of Fisherman's Wharf on the waterfront in Monterey.

For more information or tickets, call 649-6852 or 649-5561.

West Side Story

The Monterey Peninsula College Theater Company continues West Side Story through June 9 in the Main Stage Theatre on campus. Tom McKenzie directs the Jerome Robbins-Leonard Bernstein-Stephen Sondheim collaboration.

West Side Story is staged at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. Sundays.

West Side Story tells of Tony, former gang leader of the Jets, who falls in love with Maria, sister of the leader of the rival Sharks.

Music includes Something's Coming, Maria, Somewhere and I Feel Pretty.

Carl Palme has the role of Tony and Aimee Steele plays Maria. The cast of 41 also features Robert Basgall as Riff, leader of the Jets; Martin Bunnell as Bernardo, leader of the Sharks, and Michele Savage as Maria's friend, Anita.

Tickets are $12 general; $9 for students, military and senior citizens; $6 for children 12 years and younger. For reservations, call Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561; or the MPC box office, 646-4213.

Driving Miss Daisy

The Pulitzer Prize-winning drama by Alfred Uhry, Driving Miss Daisy, continues its run at the GroveMont Theater Arts Center. The play is a gently humorous and affecting study of an unlikely relationship between an aging and crotchety Southern Jewish woman (Daisy) and a proud, intelligent and compassionate black man (Hoke). Due to Daisy's propensity for crashing automobiles, her son (Boobie) compels her to hire a chauffeur. He hires Hoke, and therein begins a portrait of friendship and human dignity which spans 25 years.

Regina Hicks makes her GroveMont debut as Miss Daisy. Brad Vaughn, also making his GroveMont debut in this production, portrays Hoke and was last seen locally as Martin Luther King in I Dreamed a Dream. Dan Gotch directs.

Driving Miss Daisy is staged at the GroveMont Theater Arts Center, 320 Hoffman (at Lighthouse) in New Monterey. Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays until June 1.

Tickets are $8 general and $6 for students, military and seniors on Thursdays and Fridays; $10 and $8 on Saturdays. For reservations, call 649-6852 or 649-5561.

Monterey County Symphony announces new series

MONTEREY COUNTY Symphony Music Director and Conductor Clark Suttle has announced the orchestra's 1991-1992 Subscription Series. The six concerts include Gustav Mahler's Symphony No. 1 in D Major, "Titan"; Camille Saint-Saens' Symphony No. 3 in C Minor, "Organ Symphony"; Gustav Holst's "The Planets"; Piotr Ilych Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 6 in B Minor, "Pathétique"; and Franz Joseph Haydn's "Heilgmesse."

The 1991-1992 season opens on Oct. 13, 14 and 15 featuring the Monterey County Symphony debut of the legendary Russian pianist Lazar Berman who will perform Ludwig Van Beethoven's piano Concerto No. 4. New York Times music critic Harold Schonberg said of Berman, "He accomplishes his miracles with a minimum of fuss, but he has the ability to drive audiences into a frenzy." Recent relaxation of Soviet travel restrictions have allowed this major artist to perform again in the United States. His performance with the symphony will be his only engagement in California this season.

Also on the program are Richard Wagner's Overture to "Rienzi" and Felix Mendelssohn's Symphony No. 4 in A Major, "Italian."

Violinist Ani Kavafian, a member of the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center, will perform Antonin Dvorak's Violin Concerto at the second concert set, Nov. 10, 11, and 12. San Francisco Chronicle music critic Robert Cronday wrote of Kavafian, "One could go on about the intelligence, the high style, phrasing and more, but it must suffice to say this was a peak performance and interpretation. She gives new meaning to the term live performance." American composer David Ott's neo-romantic

"Water Garden" will open the concert. This is an impressionistic work composed for the inauguration of a public fountain, concluding the program is Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 6 in B Minor, "Pathétique."

Monterey County Symphony principal trumpet Adam Gordon makes his debut as a soloist with the orchestra in a performance of Johann Nepomuk Hummel's Concerto in E Major for Trumpet and Orchestra. A versatile musician, Gordon performs regularly with period instrument ensembles, chamber groups, festivals and symphony orchestras including the San Francisco Symphony, San Jose Symphony and the Smithsonian chamber Players. "Many Moods, Many Mornings" by American Joel Chadabe will display dramatic inventions created by the orchestra and two computers to a tune by Duke Ellington. Completing these concerts on Jan. 19, 20 and 21 is English composer Gustav Holst's popular suite, "The Planets." The last movement of the suite, "Nep-tune" includes the woman's voices of the Monterey County Symphony Chorus.

On Feb. 16, 17, and 18, the program includes works by George Frederick Handel — a concerto grosso that features two oboes, played by orchestra musicians, Bennie Cottone and Barbara Mid-ney; Tchaikovsky's popular Sere-nade for Strings; and Franz Joseph Haydn's large liturgical work, The Mass in B-flat Major — the Heilgmesse (Holy Mass). The Heilgmesse is a work for soprano, mezzo, tenor, bass and chorus. The Monterey County Symphony Chorus is under the direction of Kenneth Ahrens and includes residents from all parts of Monterey County.

Pianist Ruth Laredo returns to the Monterey County Symphony to perform Sergei Rachmaninoff's Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini. A frequent guest of major American orchestras including those of Boston, Saint Louis, New York and Cleveland, Laredo is a champion of new music as well as a distinguished performer of the music of Rachmaninoff, Scriabin and Tchaikovsky. The Cleveland Plain Dealer described her as "a dazzling virtuoso . . . her sound was big, her touch deep, her rhythm vital . . . the audience was swept away with the energy of her performance." American composer Walter Piston's Suite from the "Incredible Flutist" opens the concert and French composer Camille Saint-Saens' 3rd audience pleaser Symphony No. 3 in C Minor, the "Organ Symphony," concludes the program.

French-Canadian pianist Louis Lortie makes his debut with the Monterey County Symphony performing Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 24 in C Minor. His distinguished press accolades include from The New York Times: "Louis Lortie's impressive recital introduced New York to a pianist with musical and technical gifts out of the ordinary"; from the Los Angeles Times: "It's easy enough to say that fine pianists are a dime a dozen. Then along come Louis Lortie, the like of whom does not appear every day, every year, or even every decade . . . An extraordinary pianist"; and La Repubblica Milan-Rome, "Playing of extreme delicacy, sensibility, fantasy, and capacity to penetrate into a piece, informed by a very modern lucidity." Carl Maria von Weber's playful Overture to "Oberon" opens the program and Gustav Mahler's orchestral showpiece, Symphony No. 1 in D Major, "Titan" concludes the subscription season.

During the 1991-1992 subscription series, the Monterey County Symphony will perform its 3 p.m. Sunday Matinee Series at Sunset Theater in Carmel instead of its regular location at King Hall on the grounds of the Naval Postgraduate School. King Hall has been closed for much-needed repairs including seismic upgrades and is scheduled to reopen in September of 1992. The Monday Evening Series will continue to be held at Sunset theater, Carmel, and the Tuesday Evening Series, at Sherwood Hall, Salinas. Both evening performances begin at 8 p.m. Season ticket prices vary and special discounts may apply.

Multi-media art trio shows at Cherry Foundation

A MULTI-MEDIA exhibit of new works by Jan Wagstaff, Carmen Priolo and Marilyn Barrett will open with a reception at the Cherry Foundation, Saturday, June 1, from 4 to 6 p.m. The public is invited.

Employing mixed media and acrylic on cut and weaved canvas, Jan Wagstaff's work depicts images of floating windows, screens, and barriers surrounded by a cool, impassive light that seems to come from nowhere and everywhere at once.

Wagstaff has had numerous exhibitions of her work throughout the country, including the Oakland Museum and the Washington State University Museum and is represented in major collections.

Carmen Priolo juxtaposes an array of materials on Japanese scroll paper to create assemblages suggesting totem images as well as elements of the Orient. Combining wire, medallions, scroll paper and trinkets, Priolo's assemblages resemble cultural idols or obscure artifacts from some unknown civilization.

An award-winning nature photographer, Marilyn Barrett has had exhibits at the UC Santa Cruz gallery, the California Museum of Photography in Riverside and at Art Alive in Palo Alto. A psychotherapist by profession, Barrett is also exhibited in various private collections throughout California.

The Cherry Foundation is located at Fourth and Guadalupe, Carmel. Gallery hours are from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday or by appointment. For more information, please call 624-7491.

The exhibition is made possible, in part, through grants from the Monterey County Cultural Council, the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea and the McMahan Foundation. The exhibit can be seen through June 28.

CARMEL ARTIST Jan Wagstaff will show new images of floating windows, screens, barriers and more as part of the group show

COMPOSED of gold leafed brass, tassel and gold wire, this untitled piece by Carmen Priolo is also featured in the new collection at the Cherry Foundation Gallery. Photographs by Marilyn Barrett complete the exhibit.

opening at the Cherry Foundation Gallery. A reception for the artists is set 4 to 6 p.m. Saturday, June 1. Cherry Hall is located at
